Teachers.

For the National Educational As sociation meeting to be held at St. Paul, Minn., July 8th to 11th, the Union Pacific "The Overland Route" invites your attention to the fact

From an illustrated article, with the above title by Dr. T. H. Mann. in the Century for July, we quote as fellows: "It was near noon of the 20th of May, 1864, that our train came to a stop, in a clearing of the pine forcet. We had been all expectation for an hour or more, straining eager eyes to satch some glimpse of our stopping-place. It was here before us. Looking from our position upon the railroad toend of the clearing, some three or four bundred yards away, a cloud of moke was curling upward from a rectangular, substantial-looking pen. Upon inquiry we were told, 'That's where you Yanks will put up!"

"We had little time for thought before a roundshouldered, blustering little man upon a white horse rode the lenth of the train, and with many a curse and oath ordered us all out. During our exit from the close, cramped quarters we had occupied so long, a fresh guard came, in the wildest confusion and unmilltary order, from the direction of the moke, and after much blustering and cursing we were formed into two lines, giving room for us to pass between, four deep. After some more swearing the officer on the white horse placed himself at the head of the column and ordered us to march. This was Wirs, our prison-keeper, and unhappily our first introduction to him was not our last. Upon reaching the inclosure we halted while a part of our number were formed into a detachment and the remainder were ordered to be placed upon the rolls of the older detachments already in the pen.

"I have healtated thus far to prenounce the word Andersonville. We knew nothing, or had heard nothing, of the place, so we had not a moment's notice of the life we were about to enter upon. These many years after, the word 'Audersonville' excites the same curiosity that it did before we entered upon the months of suffering that cannot be told. This, then, was Andersonville; or, as it was called by the guard, 'Camp Sumpter.' We entered it by a swinging door or gate, large, heavily ironed, and guarded. "As we passed within the doors were closed behind and heavily barred-closed upon me for five long months, and upon one-half our number for life. Our hearts sickened as we first looked upon the misery before our eyes. The attempt to picture our mental depression as we took in, with one quick, swift glance, the condition of those who had entered before us would be futile.

We joined inside the inclosure thirteen thousand of our comrades in arms, but they were not to be recognized. They seemed a different race of the human family, and vastly more squalid, than any I ever had seen or heard of-emsciated forms, half human and half spectral, black with fith and smoke, and ministration has been much above the average.

" 'Funny!' Well, I should say so! Look at the one in short lace skirt to the knees, rubber boots, bare arms, an immense muff, straw hat, and-a beard! 'What is it?' Why, that is 'A Modern Columbus' in the burlesque of that name given by a dramatie club of the celebrated Seventh Regiment of New York, and these illustration and the account of it are as you see, in Demorest's Family Magazine for July, which has just arrived." The pictures of the sixfooters of the Seventh arrayed in feminine toggery are about the funnicet that have appeared in any magazines for a long time. This number also contains a beautifully Vice-President Morton's house, which is full of suggestions for modern house-furnishing. The article "Stanley's Rescue of Emin," profusly illustrated, is also of great interest at this time; and "The House-Boat in American Waters" will give a bint to many who are wendering at Kansas City at 6:10 p. m. how to spend the summer.
